VOCATIONS & STEWARDSHIP

A vocation is a calling. For Catholics it means the state of life God asks us to live. There is one vocation for every baptized person and that is holiness. Holiness is living constantly in the presence of God and having a living relationship with God. This relationship is cultivated by prayer and the Sacraments. Everyone is also called to a particular vocation in life, beyond living a life of holiness. Let us all pray that each one of us finds our vocation in the church. Let us also pray for more priests.

Prayer for all vocations is recited every second Sunday of the month.

“BEHOLD, THE LAMB OF GOD”
SECOND SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME | FR. JOSEPH SEBASTIAN, CMI

In today’s Gospel, John the Baptist points away from himself and toward Jesus and says one of the most powerful lines in all of Scripture: “Behold, the Lamb of God, who takes away the sin of the world.” This is not just a beautiful title—it is a revelation of who Jesus truly is and what He has come to do.

First, the Lamb. or the people of Israel, the lamb immediately brought to mind the Passover. The blood of the lamb saved them from death and led them from slavery to freedom. By calling Jesus the Lamb of God, John is telling us: this is the true Passover. Jesus will offer Himself, not the blood of animals, but His own life, to free us from the deeper slavery of sin.

And notice something important—John says Jesus takes away the sin of the world, not just sins in general. Sin is not only personal wrongdoing; it is a power that wounds humanity, relationships, families, and society. Jesus comes to remove that burden at its root. He doesn’t ignore sin, excuse it, or condemn us for it—He carries it and destroys it through His love and sacrifice.

Second, John the Baptist teaches us humility and mission. He says, “I did not know him,” even though Jesus is his cousin. This reminds us that faith is not just about familiarity but revelation. John’s mission was not to be the light, but to point to the Light. He steps back so that Christ may be seen. This is a powerful lesson for us. As Christians, our role is not to draw attention to ourselves, our achievements, or even our good works—but to point others to Jesus by how we live, forgive, love, and serve.

Third, John speaks of the Holy Spirit. He says he saw the Spirit descend upon Jesus and remain with Him. This tells us that Jesus is not acting alone; He is filled with the Spirit of God. And the same Spirit given to Jesus at His baptism is given to us in our baptism. This means we are not powerless against sin, fear, or temptation. The Spirit lives in us, guiding us, strengthening us, and reminding us of who Jesus is—just as He did for John the Baptist.

Finally, this Gospel connects directly to the Mass. Every time we come to the Eucharist, the priest holds up the host and says the same words: “Behold the Lamb of God.” What John the Baptist proclaimed by the Jordan River, we now encounter on the altar. The Lamb who takes away the sin of the world is truly present—offering mercy, healing, and new life.

As we hear these words today, let us ask for the grace to recognize Jesus more deeply, to trust in His power to take away our sins, and like John the Baptist, to point others—not to ourselves—but always to the Lamb of God.

Amen.
